That, if Chief Judge Alton B. Parker is nominated by the Democrats for President St. Louis, he will ask Senator Gorman of Marviand to take the chairmanship of the Democratic national committee, was the positive statement of one of Judge Parker's friends yesterday, and he added:

"Judge Parker has great faith in Senator Gorman's abilities as a campaign manager. and often speaks of the effective work Gorman did for Cleveland in 1884. Besides Judge Parker is familiar with the fact that Senator Gorman has the confidence of business men, Republicans as well as Democrats, and while the Judge does not know if Gorman would undertake the task, he certainly will not hesitate, at the proper time, to request him to do so.

Other Democrats said that if Judge Parker is nominated and Senator Gorman cannot see his way clear to take the place of national chairman, ex-United States Senator James smith, Jr., of New Jersey will be the man, for the reason that Mr. Smith is as good a campaigner as Mr. Gorman, and, along with Mr. Gorman, enjoys the confidence of the business communities in all the

David B. Hill made it known to his friends resterday that at St. Louis he is to be New York State's member of the committee on resolutions. In 1900, at Kansas City, Mr. Hill was ruthlessly deprived of this important place by a combination of New York State Democrats made up of Richard Croker, Edward Murphy, Jr., and the Kings county and Erie county Democrats, who elected Augustus Van Wyck of Brooklyn. Mr. Hill, it was asserted yesterday, has promised to retain Norman E. Mack of Erie as Democratic national committeeman. Some of Mr. Hill's friends at the Hoffman House said that the Sage of Wolfert's Roost might get into deep water with his promises, and they said that at the meeting of the Democratic State committee at Albany on April 5, and at the convention in the same city on April 18, when the new State committee was elected, he had promised, in return for the election of committeemen favorable to him, every place on the Democratic State ticket next fall eight

The meeting of the new Democratic The meeting of the new Democratic State committee at Albany on Saturday will be largely attended. Friends of Judge Parker were talking yesterday of trying to get Cord Meyer, Jr., for State chairman, but it was said very positively at the Hoffman House last night that Mr. Hill had made up his mind that Melvin Z. Haven succeeded John Dunfee on the State committee elected by Mr. Hill and is an out and out pupil of Mr. Hill. For several years he has managed the State headquarters at Albany.

Some of Judge Parker's friends said last hight that Haven would satisfy them, although it is well known that they want a bigger man for the place. One prominent friend of Judge Parker's said he considered Haven a "capable man."

SENATOR WHITE'S ATTITUDE.

Bert Hiscock Has Entered the Race. SYRACUSE, April 24,-Since the adjournment of the Legislature, friends of Senator Horace White have endeavored to ascertain if he is to be a candidate for renomination, he having previously asserted that he should say nothing while the Legislature was in session "White will be a candidate, all right," said one of the Senator's political friends to-day. "He must be. Bert Hiscock threw down the gage when he said that he was a candidate and was in the race whether White wanted another term or not. Mr. Hiscock had previously said that he would not enter the race for the Senatorial nomination without first consulting White, and if he had done as he agreed and had not said that he was a candidate whether White was or not, the Senator would have retired with his present term. Senator White has felt for some time that he ought not to take from his law business the time required by his Senatorial duties. Later, Mr. Hiscock came on the scene in a manner that displeased the Senator and his friends."

The attitude of ex-Senator Hendricks

The attitude of ex-Senator Hendricks on the Senatorial question is still a matter of speculation among the politicians, who generally agree that he hasn't committed himself to either Senator White or Mr. Hiscock, It is current talk that since ex-Senator Hiscock returned from the South two weeks ago he has interceded in the interest of his son with Mr. Hendricks, and the politicians, in speculating on the attitude that the Republican leader will assume, take into account the influence that Mr. Hiscock can bring to bear upon him on account of their political, business and personal relations. They recall, however, that Mr. Hendricks hasn't always given in to ex-Senator Hiscock.

COCKRAN IN 1896.

Made His McKinley Tour at His Own Cost, Says Major Byrne.

Major John Byrne, who was president of the Democratic Sound Money League in the campaign of 1896, gave out some yesterday regarding the bargain made with Bourke Cockran by which Mr Cockran was to deliver his speeches for McKinley in that year. The treasurer of the League was ex-Gov. Flower. In telling how Mr. Cockran came to agree to speak for McKinley, Major Byrne said:

"Gov. Flower and I hit on Mr. Cockran as the only man who could effectively reply to Mr. Bryan, and we determined to get him if we could. Mr. Cockran happened to be in Europe. Gov. Flower sent him a cable asking him to come home, and he did."

"He arrived about Aug. 1, and Gov "He arrived about Aug. 1, and Gov. Flower and I met him at the gangplank. Gov. BRYAN GOING TO INDIANA? Hearst Men Say That He Will Attend the Democratic State Convention.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 24 .- The attack of W. J. Bryan on Judge Parker and the platform of the New York Democrats at Chicago last night, coupled with a report that he would come to Indiana and make a speech before the Democratic convention, which meets on May 12, has made the Hearst men here jubilant. The men who have been making the fight for Parker say that Bryan's attitude means that the party cannot respond to the demand for a conservative candidate with any hope that Mr. Bryan will indorse his nomination and that the nomination of an extremist like Hearst means that the conservative vote will again be lost at the polis.

The opinion most generally expressed is that the speech has damaged Parker's hopes. It is believed here that Bryan will be able now to control enough delegates to preven the New York Judge from getting a two-thirds york.

delegates to prevent the New York Studge from getting a two-thirds vote.

The Republican leaders, many of whom are here in advance of the assembling of the Republican State convention on Tuesday, are jubilant over Bryan's speech and say it insures Indiana to the party no matter whom the Democrats may nominate, for the factions will be further apart than in 1886.

GOV. BRADLEY SAYS HE HAS WON He Declares That He Has More Instructed Votes Than Yerkes.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 24.-Despite the claims of the friends of John W. Yerkes last night that former Governor Bradley had been defeated in the Republican county conventions held yesterday, Gov. Bradley is supported by additional returns from outlying counties received

The Herald (Republican) says that Bradley has been defeated, while the Courier-Journal (Democratic) asserts that Gov. Bradley has a safe lead. Not only does he have more instructed votes than Yerkes, but he claims the entire vote of the city of Louisville, which is uninstructed. Besides this there is the usual contest from Kenton county, and if Bradley gets his delegation seated he will surely control and may oust Yerkes as national committeeman.

ALDRICH NATIONAL CHAIRMAN?

ROOSEVELT SAID TO HAVE TURNED FROM GOV. MURPHY.

Parker Boom Believed to Have Sent Some Offended Republicans Back to the Roosevelt Band Wagon-Eight Years More of the White House in Vista.

Gov. Franklin Murphy of New Jersey having sailed away to Europe, Republican friends of President Roosevelt started yesterday to again hunt up a chairman of the Republican national committee, Gov. Murphy has had the inside track for this important place since Senator Hanna's death, but it was said yesterday that he would not be selected. The only name heard yesterday was that of Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island. Senator Aldrich has many friends in the financial world and would have a far better influence in a national campaign, it was urged, than Gov. Murphy, even if Murphy does come

Gov. Murphy, even if Murphy does come from the "Corporation State."

Within the last month a change has come over the Republican national situation, according to the testimony of those behind the scenes. Whereas many Republicans of substance have been downright angry at President Roosevelt and vowed that they wouldn't give him a lift in his campaign, some of these men are now getting aboard the Roosevelt band wagon.

This was the testimony yesterday not only of Republicans who didn't want Roosevelt, but of Democrats with whom the anti-Roosevelt Republicans have been dickering in the hope that the Democrats would nominate a "sane" candidate who wouldn't bother too much with the tairff and who would be free from the taint of and who would be free from the taint of radicalism.

Many Bryan and Hearst men have declared openly that they would support Roosevelt as against any candidate to be named by the Democracy save Bryan or Hearst, and it was very general testimony that not in twenty-five years have the political conditions of the two great parties been so muddled or the leaders so puzzled. Republicans of undoubted perception did not hesitate to say yesterday that President Roosevelt, if elected, will start his administration with a determination to be renominated in 1908. They said that President Roosevelt desired to emulate Grover Cleveland in the matter of nominations and elections. Roosevelt came to the Presidential chair by an assassin's bullet, and his nomination at Chicago in June would be his first Presidential nomination. If elected, according to these predictions, he is to try for a second nomination in 1908.

President Roosevelt, according to his friends, is shortly to retire from his Cabinet Henry C. Payne as Postmaster-General and appoint in his place George B. Cortelyou, Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor, and James R. Garfield, at present Commissioner of Corporations in Secretary Cortelyou's Department, is to be promoted to be Secretary of the Department.

MACHINISTS TO GO OUT?

Another Strike on the Hew Haven Rail road Stated for To-day.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 24.-It given out here to-night that at several places along the line of the New Haven railroad the machinists would go out on strike to-morrow because their demands for more pay and shorter hours had not been granted by the company. It was said that the 400 machinists in the shops in this city and neighborhood would surely strike.

There will be 1,000 machinists in the strike. There arrived in this city the morning between fifty and one hundred more strike breakers, coming here on the company's freight steamer, the Eleanor Peck, from New York. They, with the 150 that arrived here on Saturday, were all put to work in the boiler shops this afternoon. Where they are at work is patrolled by about thirty special policemen and detectives.

The company is determined not to sur-render to the strikers, according to the statements made this evening.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 24.-W. B. Henderson, City Attorney of Memphis and a son of Vice-Mayor B. M. Henderson of this city, committed suicide this afternoon at Germantown, Tenn., a short distance from Memphis. Henderson had been on a protracted pree and left a note to Louis Thompson, whom he was visiting at Germantown, saying that he could not go on living as he had been and that he considered suicide the only honorable method of ending it all. He also left long notes to his mother and father. He shot himself in the temple.

Mr. Henderson was a former law partner of the late Josiah Patterson and a member of the law firm of Patterson, Neely & Henderson, Congressman M. R. Patterson being associated with him. He was prominent in social circles and was considered one of the most talented young lawyers in this city. He had been City Attorney for about a year.

DIVORCE BY A N. Y. NOTARY. He Married the Couple and Then Set Them

PATERSON, N. J., April 24.-Abram Weiss, German, who has been in this country long enough to speak broken English, has been married five times and is now looking for his sixth wife. He holds divorce papers from the fifth wife that are somewhat remarkable. They were given to him and his former wife, for she also holds a copy by the notary public who married them The papers have no signature and are entirely typewritten. Weiss said they were given to him by a notary public on East Broadway, New York, and cost him $2. He intends to start for Newark to-morrow for the purpose of looking up the sixth Mrs.

Weiss's fourth wife died at the General Hospital here six weeks ago. She left four children. Weiss could not bear the thought of having four motherless children and looked about for another wife. Through New York friends he learned of a woman who had some property. He went to New York and was introduced to her. She was willing to take a husband and change her name of Mrs. Tube Schumaker to Mrs. Abram Weiss and her place of residence from Canal street, New York, to North Main street, Patarson.

Main street, Paterson.

Weiss was honest in his dealings with Mrs. Schumaker. He presented a doctor's certificate showing that he was unfit for manual labor. This was not objectionable to the future Mrs. Weiss, who offered to set him up in business. For this purpose set him up in business. For this purpose she was to use $900. The following Sunday she was to use $900. The following Sunday was agreed upon as the time for the marriage ceremony. Weiss was not chasing jack o' lanterns, however. He wanted to see the money. Mrs. Schumaker gave him a check on the Bowery Bank for $300. This was not altogether satisfactory. He wanted the $900 in his name before they was stranda one. This matter was finally. wanted the $900 in his name before they were made one. This matter was finally compromised by an arrangement whereby the money could not be touched without both signing for it. Weiss kept the check for the $300 in his inside pocket.

The notary on East Broadway was then risited. After performing the ceremony.

visited. After performing the ceremony

"Now, Mr. and Mrs. Weiss, eyerything is all right. I have married you under the laws of New York State. Should you become dissatisfied, however, inside of ten days, come to me and I will divorce you. Don't remain away longer than ten days. Don't remain away longer than ten days as I shall not send the notification of your marriage to the City Hall until after that time."

Weiss was doubtful about the ability of a notary to marry, but supposed he had at least as much power as a New Jersey justice of the peace. He said so to the notary. of the peace. He said so to the notary.

"Never fear, never fear," said that individual. "Justices in the State of New Jersey will soon be a thing of the past, but notary publics shall go on forever."

This sounded big, so Weiss let it go at that.

The newly married pair came to this city

The newly married pair came to this city last week. The day after their arrival Mrs. Weiss asked her speuse to go to work, totally ignoring his certificate. Weiss rebelled. The same afternoon he went to New York to cash the $300 check. The bank informed him that it would be necessary to have Mrs. Weiss's signature. He returned to Paterson, crestfallen. Seeking out Justice of the Peace Ettleson, to whom he could make explanations in his native tongue, he asked what could be done. The Justice is experienced in queer cases of married life, but he told Weiss his was the timit. Finding that nothing could be done, Weiss talked the matter over with his wife and both agreed that, as signs of incompatibility were showing thus early in their married life, it would be best to return to the East Broadway notary and get a divorce.

The notary was waiting for them. He gave Weiss "divorce papers," which the German shows with great pride. Across the back in glaring red letters is the word "Release." Justice Ettleson said when he saw it:

"What's the use of going to Dakota?"

he saw it:

"What's the use of going to Dakota?"

Weiss says he has been to Newark three times to see the woman who is to be his sixth wife, but has so far met disappointment. Mrs. Schumaker was 35 years old and was considered quite good looking by the neigh-bors who became acquainted with her during her few days in this city.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 24.-The gunboat Vera Cruz, built at the Crescent shipyards here for the Mexican Government was formally delivered last night to a representative of President Diaz. She made ten knots an hour in the afternoon under natural draught, and she had previously made sixteen knots under forced draught, which was what the contract called for She anchored last night in the North River off Thirty-fourth street, New York, and will not return to Elizabeth. It is understood that the Vera Cruz will take on an American crew for a year. Her sister ship, the Tampico, will have her trial trip within a fortnight.

PROPOSED FOOTBALL CHANGES. Various Suggestions That Have Been Made to the Rules Committee.

without number ha made to the football rules committee changes in the playing rules. Some of the suggestions, instead of tending toward simplicity, which is needed in the game, would make it more complex, and the best place for them is the waste basket. There's been too much tinkering with the rules already. One suggested change is that after a fumble or blocked kick the ball becomes dead and goes to the other side where the misplay oc-curred. It is argued that when one team carries the ball a long distance it is not fair that a single long run resulting from a fumble or blocked kick should offset all the other team's hard work.

Another suggestion is to do away with the wholesale substitution of players toward the end of a game to get a fresh eleven in the field, and still another, and one which will be widely supported, is to decrease the value of a field goal in relation to a touchdown All kinds of suggestions are made on this point, one to rate the field goal according to the distance the ball is kicked.

A third suggestion is that six men shall be in the line of scrimmage all the time, but if seven men are in the line the first man receiving the ball from the snapback may run with it. It was found last year that the new rule requiring seven men to be in line in certain parts of the field did not encour-age the presence of light fast backs, but put a premium on avoirdupois behind the line. Series of Aceldents in a Sunday Ball Game POTTSVILLE, Pa., April 24 .- Anthony Mack, a ten-year-old boy, while playing baseball in Heckscherville Valley to-day, had his skull crushed by a baseball bat. A companion had three ribs broken while aliding to a base and a third boy had the sight of one of his eyes destroyed by being hit with a ball.
